The Navarran town of Falces wins the IV Prize Eolo to the rural integration of wind.

The Navarran town of Falces has won the 2015 Prize Eolo to the rural integration of wind in its fourth edition. The jury decided to reward him for being a model municipality in which the wind development is concerned. With a largely agrarian economy, the town has managed to use the resources generated by wind power to create wealth and employment, so that all the neighbors have been favored by wind bet.
